NUVISAN and Innovation Campus Berlin now virtually gathered under one roof

We are delighted to officially announce the launch of our brand new website, www.nuvisan.com, providing our visitors an easier way to learn about NUVISAN's solutions from target identification to the proof of concept in patient.

Elmar Rothenfusser and his marketing team developed the website around one core belief that he describes in a short tagline "It is the people who turn science into Life Science". According to Elmar "We all have same or similar machines and techniques on the market. The experienced and passionate people behind the machines and how they interact creates the difference and brings value to our clients."

Building on that idea, our homepage displays our team members from top management to technicians, all working hand in hand for your project. For your convenience, the interactive website provides with new functionalities including an extended animated value chain easier browsing tool organized by industry or solutions, online appointment scheduling tool and a private access to your MyNUV account to allow you to easily register for our digital events, watch our videos or download our whitepapers.

To stay up to date with our content, please follow us on LinkedIn.

We would also like to thank our amazing staff at NUVISAN and Innovation Campus Berlin for energy and scientific excellence to make us proud of our new website.

To continue to serve you well, please feel free to share your feedback.

Thank you,

Dr. Dietrich Bruchmann, CEO of NUVISAN Pharma Holding GmbH
